The Ainslie grasslands AKA 'Ainslie Volcanics', is home to a variety of critically endangered species, including natural temperate grasslands, box gum woodland, and multiple Commonwealth threatened species. The area is also of great cultural significance to First Nations people. This important ecological and heritage site is under threat and we must act now to save it.

Volunteers have been working hard to preserve and manage this site, but they cannot do it alone. We need the ACT Government to take action to protect the Ainslie Grasslands by incorporating them into the Ainslie Nature Reserve.

Please sign our petition today and help protect the Ainslie Grasslands for future generations!
